Please note that these times are the bare Transport Canada minimum requirement for the PPL License. Although there are scenarios where an applicant would meet these minimums, it is not the normal case. It should be expected that due to, but not limited to, starting training from the very start of Transport Canada's Pilot Program, personal skill progress, and commitment to the program, these numbers will be significantly higher.

As a point of reference, the current average PPL License completion in Canada is 90 hours.
